We all have dreams.

We are all capable of making most of them reality. However, sometimes we succeed at making them come true and sometimes we don't... Sometimes our dreams can't come true. No matter what, this semester has taught ALL of us that no matter if they come true or not, going after these dreams teaches us determination, perseverance, and shows us who supports us in chasing after them & who supports us when they break. That support makes all the difference. I feel lucky to see one of my dreams come true today. CREATE'S first time in a theatre! It absolutely wouldn't be what it is today without all of your support. I am grateful beyond words for my students, dance parents, my family, and friends for being supportive of my journey and CREATE'S.

Thank you always to my students for being vulnerable in sharing parts of your journeys with us. You leave an indelible mark on my heart.
